ONE OF THE OLDEST ENGLISH DANCING TRADITIONS!

Today groups of people still enjoy Morris Dancing. Why? It is sociable, we see many parts of this country and abroad.

Pump House Clog Morris dance Northwest Clog Morris, which originated in Lancashire by the workers from the Cotton Mills early in the 18th Century, which had a revival in the 1970's. In fact Pump House are celebrating their 20th Anniversary this year, in that time they have visited Russia, Germany, France and the USA. They dance in clogs with a colourful costume and hats decorated individually.

Phoenix Morris is a mixed Cotswold side, which is the oldest tradition of Morris. It is known that this style existed in Shakespeare's time, as there is a story called Kemp's Jig in which Kemp danced from London to Norfolk. The actual origins before that time are still a mystery although there are many theories including that it may have come from The Moors! However, Phoenix have just as colourful costumes but the style is different, the emphasis is on the up not down as Northwest.

We dance because we enjoy dancing and socialising, hopefully you will enjoy watching us enjoy ourselves.

SUCCESS YOUR CHILD CAN COUNT ON

From the Chairman of The Parish Council

As a result of the compliments and encouragement the Council received last year for the Inaugural Craft Fair it has pleasure in again sponsoring one for this year.

There will be more of just about everything, more exhibitors, some with demonstrations, more live entertainment, more competitions and particularly more for the children to do, not forgetting the party on Saturday evening dancing to a live band.

The Council wishes you a happy & entertaining weekend

Cllr Brian Norman
